CLOSE OF THE LONDON SEASON

CZAR'S INTERESTING TALK TO AN AMERICAN GIRL.

(Copyright 1898 by Associated Press.)
LONDON, July 15.—The weather during the week long has been tropical, heating all records for twenty years past, and the heat has given a final blow to the bathing season. Every one is hurrying to the country. Even the Americans who were here in such numbers last week are scattering over the continent.
The most picturesque and enjoyable event of the week was Princess Louise's garden party at Kensington Palace, where most of the leading painters, musicians and actors mingled with royalty and the aristocracy. Over 1,000 invitations were issued.
Miss Kussner, the young American who has achieved a high reputation in Europe and America as a miniature painter, recently returned here from Russia, where she had most interesting experiences. She went to St. Petersburg to paint a miniature of the Grand Duchess Vladimir, and had only been there a few days when she was summoned to the winter palace to paint a likeness of the Czar. Before she had finished the Czar ordered a miniature of himself. Miss Kussner speaks with much enthusiasm of the kindness and consideration with which she was treated by their imperial circle and the simple unaffectedness of their life. Her first sittings were at the Winter Palace at St. Petersburg, and the last at the Summer Villa at Zarzko-Selo. While the palaces bristled with soldiers and officers, both the Emperor and the Empress, both the Czar and the Czarina, were most friendly and unassuming. Miss Kussner gave the Czar eight or nine sittings of several hours each and talked most freely with her. He is a great admirer of America and Americans, whom he told Miss Kussner, he admired for their intelligence and independence.
"You do not bother about what other nations think," he said.
CZAR WATCHES AMERICA.
It will interest American editors to know that everything affecting Russia or the Czar's family appearing in the prominent American newspapers finds its way to the Czar's desk and is read by him. His familiarity with American affairs and Americans of note is remarkable.
The Czar spoke warmly of Admiral Dewey, discussing his career with great interest and saying: "His victory at Manila was a splendid achievement."
The Czar is not so enthusiastic concerning our land operations in the Philippines. He seemed to think we had our hands full there.
Miss Kussner is contemplating a tour around the world but returns to Russia for several months next winter.
SPANISH BITTERNESS.
A private letter from Madrid says the feeling there against Americans is growing very bitter on account of the Philippines prisoners, and the position of Americans at Madrid is very unpleasant. When Mrs. Bellamy Storer, wife of the United States Minister, recently saw the Queen Regent the latter with tears in her eyes said: "What is past is past and we can bear that, but the Americans ought to help us liberate our people who are held prisoners. The uncertainty as to their fate and suffering is torturing our relatives and my whole unhappy country."
All classes are now taking the matter up. Some letters from the prisoners have reached Madrid saying they number 709 and are in the most miserable condition, without sufficient clothing or food. National subscriptions are being organized to help them.
The Spaniards say the Americans would not allow them to remain on the islands and rescue the prisoners, and that the Americans do not or cannot liberate them.
According to information obtained from British naval sources, Admiral Dewey's reception at the various British stations was no more cordial and in no way different from that accorded to Admirals of other fleets. Admiral Dewey's visit to the island of Malta is likely to be very quiet. The Governor is in deep mourning, owing to the death of his wife. The British fleet left Malta last Sunday on its summer cruise, and half the officers of the garrison and English residents are absent, the former on furlough and the latter in Great Britain or traveling on the continent.
BOOKMAKERS DOWN CROKER.
According to the Man of the World in the mid-week edition of the Sporting Times, recognized sporting authority, Richard Croker returns to New York in August. The paper adds that Mr. Croker has signally failed in his avowed object of "knocking the stuffing" out of Tattersall's ring and that when he returns to the United States he will "not be missed."

SPAIN BITTER BECAUSE WE HAVE NOT FREED HER PRISONERS.

HAGGIN'S HORSE SALE.

The sale of Haggin's yearlings at Newmarket Tuesday attracted much attention and realized 10,750 pounds, averaging 121 pounds. In only one instance was a really good price reached, namely 1-50 guineas for a Goldfinch-Fluorite colt. The late Bruce Saxon's American yearlings averaged 127 guineas. On Thursday a number of yearlings were bought by Patrick Gilpin, who will train and race them here for William C. Whitney. Truth says: "There has been a great deal of cracked-brained trumpeting about the sale of Haggin's yearlings. A mighty fuss was raised about a large consignment of yearlings from the United States sold at Newmarket last autumn, when high prices were realized, but not one of the animals which then changed hands has won a race so far, and they appear to be practically worthless for racing purposes. When ashine enthusiasts indulge in laudatory rants about the American horses because Lord Reresford won a number of important races with animals from the United States, they forget his horses were all bred by Mr. Lordard, who has the finest stud in America."

HE IS A STORMY LOVER.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LOS ANGELES, July 15.—The trial of W. H. McLean, who is alleged to have threatened to shoot several members of his sweetheart's family, and to have said that he would "do the Dunham act, unless they let him alone," was called today, but postponed on account of the illness of Maggie Macy, one of the witnesses, who is a sister of the young lady to whom McLean paid attention.

WHITE. DEFEAT MAY DIE

Boom Started to Make Him a Presidential Nominee.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Robert P. Troy, formerly of San Francisco and more recently of Washington, D. C., arrived from the East this morning over the Santa Fe. Mr. Troy was a few years ago one of the best known Democrats in the State and Secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee. He is working up a boom for Senator Stephen M. White for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. He said:
"The Senator could, in my opinion, easily secure the Democratic Presidential nomination. He is looked upon in the East as one of the national leaders of the party, and perhaps the single man who could give William J. Bryan any serious trouble in next year's national convention."

BIG STRIKE THREATENED.

Brooklyn Carmen May Soon Quit in a Body.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. NEW YORK, July 15.—A committee of sixteen employees, representing the various lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, including the Nassau system, waited on President Rossiter today. Mr. Rossiter declined to come to any agreement with them. Later in the day he issued a statement. Another conference with the men is expected.
President Rossiter's statement details the fact of the visits to his office today and of the committee's presentation to him of a list of demands, which he was asked to concede at once. Mr. Rossiter says he replied that he had not had an opportunity to look over the paper, but taking it up, he went over it paragraph by paragraph with them, asserting that in every instance the men already had what they demanded, and in some instances more.

THE GUATEMALA SCARE.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. WASHINGTON, July 15.—Neither the British nor German embassies here have received a word concerning Guatemalan affairs, and the reported purpose of a united movement to compel Guatemala to observe her obligations to foreign bondholders. There is the same lack of official confirmation of the report that the German cruiser Geier has been ordered to proceed immediately to Guatemala. In the absence of any instructions to the foreign representatives here, there has been no step up to the present time toward co-operation with the United States authorities as to Guatemala. Mr. Hunter, our Minister to Guatemala, has been instructed to keep a close watch on American interests there.

SUSPECTED OF BRIBERY.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. DETROIT, July 15.—The Evening News says:
Acting on certain information, the Police Commissioners have instructed Captain McDonnell, Chief of the Detective Department, to investigate the transactions of some of the Aldermen for the past few days. What the evidence is can only be conjectured. It is known, however, that as far as the police are concerned, the finger of suspicion is pointed to six Aldermen as having received a bribe for their votes on the street-car ordinance last Tuesday.

STRIKE AT FALL RIVER.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. FALL RIVER, Mass., July 15.—The strike of millmen for higher wages was inaugurated today, the night men throwing down their shovels at the end of their shift and giving notice that they would not return today. The day men will stop at 3 p. m. There are forty cotton corporations in this city, but the American print works, the iron works and the Seacoast mills were not involved in today's action.
It is understood that concessions have been made to the men at the places named.

Will Join His Company.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Captain S. R. Langworthy, who will command a company of Thirty-fifth United States volunteers, will leave tonight for Vancouver to report for duty. He will join Captain Schreiner in San Francisco, and they will travel together from that point.

Street Railroads Will Not Be Purchased by People.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. DETROIT, July 15.—It was conceded on all sides this afternoon that the Pingree-Johnson plan for the purchase of the street railways is defeated.
There is now no possibility of mastering enough votes of aldermen to pass the desired ordinance over the Mayor's veto.
Several of the Aldermen who voted for the security franchise have now decided that the risk of failure to pay for the roads out of 3 cent fare receipts is too great to incur with reasonable safety.

Outrageous Treatment of a Woman By Rioters.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. CHICAGO, July 15.—Early this morning more arrests were made, owing to the police station being besieged by a party of marines who demanded the release of their comrades. The windows of the station were broken. Soldiers with drawn swords pursued men who were engaged in tearing down lanterns after the national flag. The rioters in several places attempted to provoke the infantry of the line by insulting cries. The troops, however, remained calm.
Many people were wounded during the rioting, but there were no fatal cases reported. The riotous marines, among other excesses, stripped a woman, naked in the middle of the street in spite of the efforts of the populace to rescue her. Among those injured were a number of women.

Wireless Telegraphy for the Hawaiian Islands.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. CHICAGO, July 15.—A special to the Tribune from Victoria, B. C., says:
Marconi's system of wireless telegraphy is to be put in operation in Hawaii as a means of communication between the different islands of the group. An organization has been formed, capital has been subscribed for the project, and some of the material of the system is already on the way.
There is only one channel between islands in the group that is wider than the English channel. That is the one between Oahu and Kauai, and to the minds of the promoters of the enterprise communication across this is the only part of their plan which is problematical.

M.—It is reported that the Filipino Junta will be moved from Hongkong to the island of Labuan, a British colony six miles from the northwest coast of Borneo, as the American officials have watched the members of the Junta so closely at Hongkong that the latter have found it impossible to supply the insurgents with arms.

Just then the Berkeley local engine came along and struck the conductor before he noticed its approach.
Carpenter sustained a broken arm and severe internal injuries. He was knocked unconscious. He has been employed by the company for over ten years. His home is at 706 East Seventeenth street, where he has a wife and family. The injured man was taken away in the Fabiola ambulance.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. WASHINGTON, July 15.—General Harrison Gray Otis, who has been in New York for some days on private business, returned here today to protest against certain features of the reciprocity agreement negotiated with Jamaica. CRIME AND ACCIDENT.

LOVER SLAYS SWEETHEART BECAUSE SHE WOULD NOT MARRY.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 15.—Roy Sutton is under arrest charged with murdering his sweetheart, Leona Blumner, of Mason City, last night. Sutton, it is alleged, shot the girl twice and then fired a bullet through his own body. He will probably die. Miss Blumner's parents objected to Sutton as a prospective son-in-law. Last night he took the girl out driving. He came back alone at midnight, and reported having shot himself. A searching party soon after found Miss Blumner's body in a cemetery west of the city. A pistol was found near the body. Sutton refused to talk. It is generally believed, however, that he killed the girl because she refused to marry him. Sutton served in the army during the war with Spain.

SHOT HER HUSBAND.

CHICAGO, July 15.—A special to the Times-Herald from St. Louis says: Louis W. Holladay, son of Jesse W. Holladay a Chicago millionaire, is lying probably fatally wounded at the Baptist Sanitarium. He was shot late last night by his wife at their home.

CHICAGO MILLIONAIRE IS SHOT BY HIS WIFE.

In an interview last night, twenty miles west of here, where he is fishing and camping with a party of friends, stated he would see that the act in respect to disobeying an order from the United States Government is fully investigated, and that all the guilty ones are brought to justice. The open violation of Judge Thomas' order, it is predicted, marks the beginning of the end of conflicting laws in the Indian Territory. As a matter of fact, all tribal laws in the territory are of no effect, yet all the tribes cling to their old Indian laws and continue to insist upon self government.

At South McAlester, United States Judge Clayton is reported as saying Judge Thomas has no jurisdiction in the district where the execution took place.

DEATH CLAIMS CAPT. MERRITT.

Has Been a Resident of Oakland for Over Twenty Years.

Captain Stephen Henry Merritt, one of Oakland's old and well known citizens died at his residence at the corner of Thirteenth and Harrison streets this morning after a long and tedious illness. He was seventy-five years of age and for the past two and a half years he had been confined to his home and practically to his bed. For nine months he had subsisted entirely on malted milk. His death was due to a general breaking down resulting from old age. His physician, at the time of death, was Dr. Stetson, who, with members of the family, was present at the end.

Captain Merritt came to Oakland in 1855, arriving here on June 6th, in charge of the bark Vidette, the property of the late Dr. Merritt, whose kinsman Captain Merritt was. Captain Merritt's wife followed him three years later from Bath, Maine. He survives him, together with one son, Harry Merritt.
Captain Merritt made long voyages from this port, to Australia and to South America. He also did an extensive lumber carrying business up the coast. While he was bar-stayed returning from one of his coast voyages, his daughter was buried twenty years ago, and that was Captain Merritt's last voyage. Since that time, up to his sickness of two years ago, he has been a well known figure in Oakland. He was a strong character and an amiable personality, having many friends.

THE NEW YORK STATE BANKERS.

Discuss Branch Banks and Listen to Papers.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. ALBANY, N. Y., July 15.—The New York State Bankers' Association here today on the Pennsylvania system of taxation for State purposes with special reference to the taxation of banks. He severely criticized the methods of taxing corporations in New York State.

Judge John R. McPherson of the United States Court, District of Pennsylvania, spoke on "Suggestions Concerning Corporate Taxation." He discussed the Pennsylvania tax system minutely, and advocated its adoption in case of change of State tax system.

At the afternoon session W. S. Williams of Atlanta, Ga., addressed the convention upon "Branch Banks." These institutions in Georgia, he said, were independent, one of the other, and he maintained that this was the right method to manage them. He enumerated the advantages of such institutions as follows:

"There is no capital stock to pay tax on; they increase the deposit of the parent bank; they save a considerable amount of expense; they meet the political demands in keeping rural districts supplied with cash that would otherwise be concentrated in cities. It is almost impossible to create a run on these country banks." Some discussion followed on this subject.

HOW THE CZAROWITZ DIED

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. ST. PETERSBURG, July 15.—The following details of the death of the Czarowitz appear in the official Messenger:

The Czarowitz went for a ride on a horse-drawn carriage at 5 o'clock in the morning of July 16th from the palace. He went very fast for two verses and then turned. A peasant woman passing noticed that as he turned the machine, he staggered and his face was as white as paper. He stopped and alighted, swaying as he did so. The woman ran up, supported him and asked what was the matter. The Prince replied, "Nothing." The woman offered him water, and the Prince made an affirmative gesture. She bathed his teeth and mouth. Death then supervened, peacefully and painlessly. The remains were taken to the palace. The place where he died has been enclosed by a railing.

The steamer Puritan is taking on forty engines for the Chinese & Eastern Railway, and thirty-one engines are to be built and ready for shipment by the beginning of next year. UNION BANK AFFAIRS

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. SAN JOSE, July 15.—The injunction issued by Superior Judge Kittredge stopped the sale of delinquent stock of Union Savings Bank set for today. The 10 per cent assessment call should have raised $100,000. Only $900 was paid, and all other stock was delinquent. It was advertised for sale by the directors.

In the court proceedings it was shown that if the stock was sold it would of necessity be bought in by the bank, which is totally insolvent. This would, of course, lose to the depositors their recourse against the stockholders for the unpaid $10 a share on the capital stock. Hence the injunction.

SALE OF GODFREY ESTATE PROPERTY.

Both sales are subject to the confirmation of the court.

SHAMROCK SHOWS SPEED.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. SOUTHAMPTON, July 15.—The cup challenger Shamrock went for a spin in Southampton waters. She started under all her working sails, and off Calshot castle hoisted her club tassel. Near the Isle of Wight she caught a spanking breeze, and went down the west channel apparently at a tremendous pace.

Later the Shamrock returned to her moorings with her mainsail damaged. Sainita accompanied the cup challenger on her spin.

FIGHT THE COMMISSION.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. NEW ORLEANS, July 15.—The determination of the railroad and steamboat companies to resist the rates fixed by the Railroad Commission for the handling of rice from the country districts, threatens to interfere with the transportation of this year's crop of rice. Today the new rates of the Railroad Commission go into effect, and the Southern Pacific has brought a suit for injunction at Baton Rouge to prevent their operation, on the ground that the rate unjust. Captain J. B. Woods of the St. Louis and New Orleans line declares the steamboats will make no attempt to handle rice this season unless old conditions are restored.

The crime was evidently committed for the purpose of robbery but the man's discharge papers were still on the body, by which means he was identified. He was a native of St. Louis.

A Lynching Threatened.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. HUNTINGTON, W. LAMBARDI'S DYING RALLY. NO KING FOR SAMOANS.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. SAN JOSE, July 15.—Efforts are being made to get the Lambardi Opera Company off the financial rocks. Wood & Co., theatrical men of Los Angeles, claim the scenery and costumes under a bond for duty. They also claim a contract with the company for a tour, but refuse to carry it out unless the entire company is kept together. It is said two or three of the leading people left the company in San Francisco because of salary delays. Lambardi is in San Francisco today attempting to get an extension of time from these people and their consent to go on the tour. If so, expenses are guaranteed by Wood & Co.

EDITORIAL FIFTH.
According to the Chicago Times-Herald a New York Chinaman has been sued by his wife's dressmaker. This disposes of the old theory that Chinamen are incapable of partaking of western civilization.

Five hundred convicts in the Iowa State prison have gone on strike for better food. The arrangements, however, are such that they won't be able to go very far, remarks the New York Mail and Express.

The St. Paul girl who is suing her septuagenarian uncle for breach of promise wrote him a loving letter a few months ago asking him for a lock of his hair. Now she wants his scalp, says the Boston Globe.

Whatever the Yale lock may be able to do in holding things fast, there's not so much speed when it comes to Yale locks, observes the Philadelphia Times.

The Memphis Appeal now thinks that Jim Jeffries is going into the saloon business. Papa Jeffries ought to refrain from connecting the Lord with this new move of Jim's.

The Iowa State Journal declares that the gypsy fortune-teller who told the Carolina that she would have seven daughters before she would have a son and heir for the Russians, is now in a frenzy of "I told you so" delight, and the Czar is beginning to wonder if the prediction is really true.

Gen. Wood has declined the presidency of a street car company and will remain with the army in Cuba—not that he loves the war more, but because less, explains the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A New York writer makes the claim that bald-headed men never get gray. The claimant should ever happen in at a blue streak leg show when the "baldhead" has reached its dullest height; he might undergo a radical change of opinion, suggests the Denver Post.

The Milwaukee Wisconsin notes that Gen. Fred Grant has arrived in the Philippines, and the telegrams from there fail to show that the Philippines have come in and surrendered, or even have been more depressed than usual.

According to the Buffalo Express, one company of Illinois volunteers, which hopes to be sent to the Philippines, daily practices swimming across the Wabash and in uniforms and having sunk to their backs. They purpose to out-Funston Funston. They might better spend their time wandering up and down the banks seeking the author of that song.

It is now:
Dr. Rhodes,
Dr. Kipling and
Dr. Roosevelt.

They are all doctors of law, and two of them have much to do with the making of them, while Kipling is a law unto himself, remarks the Mexican Herald.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says one Shibley of New York is sending out postmen calling on the people to observe the Fourth of July as a day of fasting and mourning for the "Republic Overthrown—Empire Arisen." Memorial exercises must be held in which the Goddess of Liberty and the statue of the sign of the Declaration of Independence are to be draped in crepe, the Bacon resolution is to be read and the Chief Executive is to be lambasted as the President of the United States and Emperor of the Philippines. It would probably create as much commotion at a mouse as a sewing bee if an American saint boy should touch off a pack of firecrackers among these mourners.

THE ERRATIC BRIGNOLI.

Brignoli was susceptible to flattery, and it is said that once in New York, when the orchestra vigorously applauded one of his favorite songs, he was so touched that he came down to the footlights and invited them all to a champagne supper at the Everett House. The supper cost him $500. Brignoli was careful of his voice and was terribly afraid of drafts. It was once stated that during the winter it always took him three-quarters of an hour to get from his room to the street. First, he would, on leaving his room, pace the hall for ten minutes to warm himself. He then descended to the lobby, where the temperature was a little lower, and spent twenty minutes there. He then ventured to the vestibule, from which the door opened to the street. He would parade the vestibule for fifteen minutes, occasionally opening the door to let in a little cold air. Being now accustomed to the cool temperature, he would button up his coat and sally forth.

He once agreed to sing a solo at St. Agnes Church, New York City. He came in late and, after divesting himself of many coverings, tumbling over music racks and exasperating the choir by trying his voice, he sang the solo. The choir, however, was by this time "howling," the sermon had commenced, but Brignoli, unabashed, leaped over the choir railings and tried to attract the attention of the preacher by shaking his head and gestulating with his hands. At last he called out in a voice which was audible for some distance: "Me ready for ze sing! Stoppa ze preach!" And the priest actually cut the sermon short in order to accommodate the impatient crowd, whose voices were ranging with such fervor as to thrill the worshippers and justify the sacrifice—National Magazine.

Her Husband's Story

"My name is E. J. Sprong, and my address is 16 Bondman Block, Troy, N. Y. I want to tell how thankful I am that my wife's health has been restored to her. About a year ago she caught a dreadful cold, which settled in her bronchial tubes and lungs. She certainly had bronchitis, and I think consumption, too, and we despaired of her life. She had a tightness and soreness in the chest, and it was difficult for her to breathe. There were darts, sharp, dull and heavy pains, with constant coughing and expectorating. Each day she was worse than the day before. I was advised to get Acker's English Remedy, and did so, but my wife only shook her head and said: 'Another dollar thrown away.' She took the Remedy, however, and said the effect was magical. In less than an hour there was a remarkable change. She got better at once, and in a short time she was entirely well and strong again. The cure was permanent and there has been no relapse. I don't know what Acker's English Remedy is made of, but I am sure it contains something that fortifies the system against future attacks. My wife is in better general health now than ever, and you can't imagine how happy she is for her recovery. She tells everybody about Acker's English Remedy, and so do I, for I believe it to be one duty to the public to help every sufferer who has throat and lung troubles. My neighbors say it is a sure specific for croup, and has saved the lives of hundreds of little ones around in this vicinity alone."

The asylum scandal makes it look as if knaves have been appointed to watch over fools.

That skin game that Dr. Porter practiced in the Borchert case is what might be toughly but tersely termed "a great knave."

The Chinese lottery dealers are being successfully spotted a good deal easier than their tickets can be. Turning $150 apiece into the City Treasury every now and then takes all the cream off their business.

The man who is ashamed to have a public record made by the Board of Works of the fact that he wants work doesn't deserve to get it. Nobody should ever feel ashamed of honest toil. It is rather something to be proud of.

The man with a mobile countenance will soon be supplanted by the individual with an automobile expression. Straining his eyes and nerves in search of ruts and rocks will soon make the manipulator of the new vehicle as great a crank as the one he keeps his hand on.

It is estimated that the census next year will show that the wealth of the United States is about $100,000,000,000, or about twice that of Great Britain. No wonder the people over there want that Anglo-American alliance; it would be a mighty fine partnership proposition for John Bull.

President Harper of the Chicago University declares that the famous song, "A Hot Time in the Old Town," is vulgar and immoral, and he has prohibited the college band from playing it in the future. A man who can find evil in so innocent a thing as that should not judge everybody by himself.

The sale of the Seventh street local line to the State for unpaid taxes is an interesting proposition, and the apathy of the railroad company in the matter indicates that Chief Counsellor Herrin has a few aces up his sleeve that he proposes to play later on. The question should come up, though, can it be assessed again? Being State property in the eyes of the law, by virtue of Tax Collector Barber's sale, it appears to be exempt from all further taxation.

Santa Ana has adopted a saloon ordinance that prevents curtains, shades or any other protective devices from being placed between the imbiber and the sidewalk, the object being that people passing along the street can see everybody who lines up at the bar. As a matter of self-protection, the drinking element should organize anti-treating clubs at once, for otherwise the days when a man could go off alone and have a quiet little drink are ended down there. The "bummers" may have instigated the new measure, for all any one knows.

THE SANTA FE AND OAKLAND.
It is an old saying that "Where there is much smoke there is some fire," and it can with justice be applied to the late developments regarding the Little California and Nevada Road that reaches Udwaters to the north of Oakland. Ever since the day when a competing transcontinental line was projected, a natural conclusion has been drawn that it would use the right-of-way privileges of this foothill road as a means of reaching the Bay of San Francisco, and when the plans were in construction that led to the present building of the Santa Fe line it looked for awhile as if the road in question would be gathered in.

Once again interest is revived in the proposition, for a change has been made in the receiver of the line, and this time it has passed into the control of an individual who has in the past been closely connected with the Valley Road interests. While, therefore, it would be premature, and not warranted by the facts as at present developed, to aver that the change means that the Santa Fe people have determined to build here, it must at least be admitted that there is a probability that something of that nature is in the wind.

That the Santa Fe line will be constructed into Oakland some day is, of course, beyond question, for when our water front commerce builds up it is ridiculous to suppose that the competing line would deliberately cut itself off from so rich a source of revenue. There is, in fact, plenty of reason at the present day why the line should play here now, and as the managers of the Santa Fe are shrewd business men, they will not continue long the short-sighted policy adopted when the land terminus was established before Oakland was reached.

CALIFORNIA'S WINE PROBLEM.
While the vinticulturists of California are at a loss to understand what motive prompts Henry Crocker to offer them $11 per ton for their wine grapes on seven-year contracts, the proposition is such a favorable one that the indications are that it will be generally accepted throughout the State. A meeting of grape growers is in progress in Sonoma county today to discuss the situation, and a consensus of opinion obtained before the meeting was called to order appeared to be conclusively in favor of taking advantage of Mr. Crocker's offer.

The principal point raised by the growers has been as to where delivery should be made, and it is understood that this has been acceptably met, all asked for in that line being that the grapes be either delivered at railroad points or at central warehouses. When, therefore, it is remembered that the price obtained for wine grapes for many years past has only averaged $10.00 a ton, it can be seen that the present offer is singularly liberal. It does more, too, than merely guarantee the growers an established price for the next seven years—it fixes the value of their land, for it is easy enough to estimate the average yield of grapes per acre, and in that way a direct figure can be arrived at as to what each ranch is worth, varying, of course, with the age of the vineyards and the productiveness of the soil.

That the vineyard will either be forced to accept Mr. Crocker's proposition or else reorganize the California Winemakers' Corporation on new lines and sign up continuing contracts, is evident to those in touch with the situation. California wine has at last attained a degree of excellence that makes it in demand, not only for home consumption, but even for the foreign export trade. As there are about 2,500 growers in the State, the inexpediency of proceeding on a go-as-you-please basis is apparent, for the big producers would practically control the situation and the small growers be compelled to accept whatever price was offered them. With an organization based upon co-operative principles, though, a unit rate becomes established, and the farmer with a five-acre vineyard receives just as much for his wine per gallon as the capitalist with the 5,000-acre ranch, and furthermore, participates in the greater market that is placed within his reach by reason of united action.

If, therefore, the California Corporation is to be dissolved, it is evident that in order to protect themselves, the grape-growers will have to take advantage of the plan placed before them by Mr. Crocker. It is a mammoth undertaking on his part, and an offer that on the face of it means a dangerous place of financial engineering for him, though as far as that end of it is concerned, it is certain that he has thoroughly satisfied himself that it can carry it out with profit to himself and benefit to all. In view of the enormous interests involved, it is one of the most remarkable propositions ever placed before an agricultural community by one man, for if the offer is accepted, hundreds of millions of dollars will be involved in carrying out the project ere its consummation is reached.

The tuberculosis-in-cattle problem is being treated back East in a manner that cannot fail to bring the dairymen to heart's content. A resident of Des Moines has been awarded $50,000 damages in a suit he brought against a milk dealer because of a disease contracted by using milk furnished by the latter. The allegation was that the milk was from a cow infected with tuberculosis, and it was shown in the evidence that the milkman knew the cow was diseased. That is the way to center the responsibility and make the right man put his hand into his pocket.

SPIES.
"He must be wonderfully clever with the pen,"
"Why?"
"Even his wife sometimes reads what he writes."—Chicago Herald.

"The idea," said Mr. Byrnes, "of making all this fuss about George Washington's father didn't appear to him for chopping the cherry tree."
"Well," said his wife, "some fathers would have been quite severe."
"Not if they were men of any intelligence. Any boy who shows the slightest disposition to go out and cut wood now and then ought to be encouraged."—Washington Star.

A good story is told of the second Duke of Wellington, who, though far from being a staid, was in many old ways economical. He discovered one day some champagne which he considered, and which doubtless was, quite good enough for a ball supper, and which had the advantage of being extraordinarily low in price. He ordered the waiter to open a bottle, and was reclining in his elegant barge, when on opening one of the papers he encountered the following advertisement: "Try our celebrated champagne of this night, eight shillings a dozen, as ordered by his grace the Duke of Wellington for his forthcoming ball at Apsley house."

I dreamed I died last night
And went
To everlasting punishment;
No mocking devil met my sight,
No dory like
To choking times arose
To make me gasp for breath;
Had brought to me a greater woe than Those
I heard no shrieks, no moans,
No rattling of chains or bones;
There were no yawning pits,
No strings
Of trailing things
To throw me into fits.
A greater terror far
Than these were there:
A bathroom door stood half ajar,
And I found myself alone;
And I found myself alone;
And I found myself alone;
Forever and for aye!
—Chicago Times-Herald.

"Rivalry in the matrimonial business," says the Detroit Free Press, "runs high in Dakota, as can be seen from the following Justice of the Peace advertisements copied from a Dakota paper:

NO JOKE.
"My dear," said Mrs. Henpeck, "I'm positive that our George is thinking seriously of matrimony."
"Well, only 'spos so," returned Henpeck, with unusual spirit. "I wouldn't want any boy of mine to be so unfortunate as to regard it as a joke."

THE ROUNDERS.
"I met Jo Harris yesterday," said Herr Sie-Machen-Mich-Lachen—"Joseph Harris, you know, who for years was a Broadway clothier. And what do you suppose Jo is doing? You remember? He strove to be Fifth ward Councilman, and an Assemblyman, and a County Supervisor, and a Public Administrator. Well, he got nothing in politics. Some months ago he quit the clothing business and blossomed forth as a real estate and insurance broker. About that time he became a candidate for manager of the State Home for Adult Blind, on Telegraph avenue. 'A good job,' said Jo to me, and good things came there to eat.' Another man secured the office, and now Jo is in a new business. He has become keeper of a restaurant. 'Come and see me,' said Jo yesterday, 'good things to eat.'"

"There's lots of eloquence in a 'twenty,' you bet!" said Abolitioner J. M. Rosenberg, addressing Signor Chiacchieratore. "Why, I have just bought two $25 suits of clothes for a 'twenty,' and those merchants were glad to get the cash, you bet! They were as hungry for that coin as Bill McKinley is for Aguinaldo's scalp."

"Me marry? No, no. I prefer to remain a gay and stringless bachelor. All the same, I'm not a woman hater." The speaker, smooth-faced and not yet 40, was that jovial knight of the clerical and square of the meal-block, Henry Ford, who has been a salesman with Ford & Becker for six or seven years. It was Phyllis Na-Bockish who had provoked the above remarks. "What do I weigh? Oh, I'm a baby, I am. Only 315 pounds, that's all. My appetite? Don't mention it. Just introduce me to a large hot bird." And Henry blushed a rosy red of pride as he turned to find the wants of a hawk-eyed boarding house connoisseur.

I admire Dr. O. D. Hamlin as a fighter. I hear he grossly insulted Dr. Maher of the Board of Health, and the latter did not have the manhood to take it up.

Who is the handsomest official in town?
Harry Melvin. THE ROUNDERS.

FOR POLICEMEN.
DAVID SWAIN, PATROLMAN.

David Swain has been on the police force for fifteen years, and during that time he has missed through natural sickness only eight days. He sustained an injury, however, through a street car on the Fourteenth street line which confined him to his house for thirteen weeks. He is now as hale and hearty as a man of 40 years, although he is on the list as having attained his fifty-fifth year. Mr. Swain went on the police force in 1883, when Peter Pompey was at his head. He was assigned to the Market street beat. He was transferred then to the patrol wagon, and was so employed in 1888 when he was hurt as indicated above. Later he became night fallor, filling the position for several years, when he again took to the street. He has again got back to the wagon, engineering it on its runs through the darkness of the night. Mr. Swain has handled as many criminals as any member of the force, and his acquaintance with the criminal element, which has been acquired by a study of their peculiarities for fifteen years, is second to that of no member of the force. He is a painstaking officer and a genial companion and true friend. He has a fondness for the sea and before donning a blue coat traversed the billowy main as an engineer in one of the Oriental steamers. He likes a game of billiards, a good cigar and is a deadly pistol shot, having a nerve the steadiness of which enables him to perforate the bull's eye at range distance with certainty and ease. Mr. Swain is married and the head of a grown family. He has not much aspiration for preferment, but he has several times been mentioned for promotion.

STREET CAR MEN.
CHARLES WELLS, ALAMEDA LINE.

Charles Wells, one of the conductors of the Alameda line, has had a varied experience in the street car business. He has worked at it in the East, in San Francisco and Alameda. He has met all kinds of people and worked with all kinds of men and under many kinds of superintendents, but he is more satisfied under his present circumstances than he ever was in his life. "I have come to this place to stay," he said, "and I am going to remain as long as attention to duty will enable me to hold my place." Mr. Wells is unmarried, though some of his associates say that he will before long abandon single blessedness.

THE STORY OF TWO HEROES.
J. J. JEFFRIES * BERT NEYLAN

James J. Jeffries, champion pugilist of the world and hero of the prize ring was cheered by a thousand enthusiastic men when he entered the ring at the Reliance Athletic Club last evening. The boys gave him a big rally.
Jeffries made a clever speech in which he thanked the boys for the big reception they had tendered him. He told them in a neat speech that he would endeavor to try and keep the championship where it belongs; in America.
The crowd cheered. James J. Jeffries was the hero of the hour. He sparred three rounds with his brother Jack and the great crowd was delighted. Everybody remarked about the wonderful improvement of the fighter. It is true that Jim Jeffries made a big hit. They said that he is a magnificent specimen of physical manhood and so he is. He is the ideal prize fighter. He is better in form and fighting than John L. Sullivan was in his palmy days.
When the exhibition was over the crowd gathered around Jeffries and shook him by the hand and congratulated him. The crowd followed him down San Pablo avenue to Broadway. It was a case of hero worship. The crowd followed the big fellow all about town and had many remarks to make about his past and his future.
Is Jim Jeffries a real hero?

HUNTINGTON MAKES THE BIG DEAL.

Officials of the Southern and Central Pacific Companies in this city received private advices by wire from New York yesterday to the effect that the London and New York bankers, the Speyers, have at last disposed of the $183,000,000 of new bonds involved in the reorganization of the Central Pacific and its consolidation with the Southern Pacific Company. These securities have been floated in the form of contracts, the bonds now being organized as last as possible. It will take some time to actually deliver the bonds. Many of them are of the denominations of $25, thus making the required mechanical work very great.
Of the total bond issue, $100,000,000 is to pay off the government debt and to replace existing first mortgages of the Central Pacific. Another $25,000,000 is to take care of the sinking fund and land grant bonds of the company. The remaining $58,000,000 is to pay in part the cost of the reorganization in the form of a bonus to old stock and bondholders. The revised old stock and bondholders of the Central Pacific are to be held in reserve for improvements. New common stock of the Southern Pacific and preferred stock of the Central are also being organized in New York. The former is intended for Central stockholders in exchange for their present stock holdings. The new preferred stock of the Central goes to the Southern Pacific Company as an asset in addition to all of the old common stock of the Central.
The Huntington officials here push-push the Morshouse suit recently filed in the United States court in this city to prevent the consummation of this big bond and stock deal. They assert that yesterday's news from New York means that the deal is perfected and that Morshouse, who is a London gentleman owing 240 shares of Central Pacific stock, cannot have it legally disrupted unless he is able to show that he has by fraud been financially injured, which they think impossible.

SAN LEANDRO ROAD BOULEVARD DISCUSSED.

The first meeting of the Oakland-Towards boulevard committee was held last evening at San Leandro. The committee men present were J. N. Frank, secretary, Wilbur P. Walker and J. Tyrell, P. H. Blake, J. E. Strie and S. Swift.
As soon as the meeting was called to order a discussion arose as to the best means of ascertaining the cost of lighting the boulevard. It was finally decided to instruct Secretary Walker to call for bids.
S. Swift of the Twenty-third Avenue Improvement Club was added to the committee.
It was agreed that one of the meetings should be held at San Jose.
It was also decided to hold the next meeting in the Merchants' Exchange rooms.
The meeting then adjourned, subject to the call of the secretary.

BOARD OF HEALTH IS DOING POLITICS.

The Board of Health held a meeting last night. The City Chemist's salary was recommended increased $25 a month. Dr. Hamlin told Dr. Maher and others on the board that they are doing politics and handing out gold bricks. In fact, Dr. Hamlin roasted Dr. Maher and his colleagues in red hot style.

The Political Outlook
Puzzles the "Push."Senator Flint Likely to Succeed Major McLaughlin.

Special to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—Upon the face of things there is absolutely nothing doing in State political circles. Now that the Republican State Central Committee rooms, in the Palace Hotel, have been closed down, there is no particular place at which the gossipers can gather, save, perhaps, the Grand Hotel bar, that from time immemorial has been associated with matters political, especially on the Republican side.

The fact that Colonel Burns and other leaders have been away on vacation has deprived the faithful of their sources of information, so all that is left for them to do when they meet is to work over the threads subjects that have been torn to rags and tatters long ago. There is the extraneous question, for example, one element will, with mysterious winks and significant nods, tell you that it is a sure thing, and that "everything is working out all right," while another section will just as positively affirm that the whole thing has been knocked on the head. The result of this diversity of opinion is that everything is in statu quo, as far as the general public is concerned, and a game of roulette-air can not afford better opportunities for guesswork.

As a result of being unable to fathom the situation for themselves, and in view of the positive denials by the Governor that an extra session is contemplated, some of the agitators in the party have devised a bonanza-house of political scandal that they have succeeded in launching in certain circles. It is to the effect that a cohesiveness has been created between the Governor and Colonel Burns, and that in the future their relations will not be anything like as cordial as they have been.

All of which is sheer nonsense, for not only are the two individuals in question as fast friends as they ever have been, but they will leave in a few days for a two weeks' camping trip at Catalina Island, accompanied by their families. The ties between them are of a nature not likely to be severed, for each one, at certain times, being dependent upon the other, and the trust has not been in vain. Furthermore, they understand each other thoroughly, and Col. Burns would not be likely to ask the Governor for any favor that would not be readily granted.

The same element that endeavored to create the belief of trouble between Colonel Burns and the Governor has also been engaged in an attempt to circulate the impression that Major McLaughlin is at odds with both the Colonel and the Governor. Nothing of that nature, however, exists, and the story was doubtless born of the fact that in the contest for Registrar of Voters Jake Steppacher was backed by McLaughlin while Hickard was the first choice of Colonel Burns.

THE STATE CHAIRMANSHIP.
It may, however, be said that there is little likelihood that Major McLaughlin will remain at the helm of the Republican party during another campaign, for he has repeatedly told his personal friends of late that he has had about all he wants of politics. His efforts have been misunderstood in many quarters, for it was impossible to impress the fact upon some people that he was simply in the game out of a desire to advance the interests of his party. Such a stand was so foreign to the accepted idea of a politician and his methods, that those engaged in the practical end of the business refused to entertain it, and were constantly on the qui vive for some opportunity to locate what the Major was after.

The best evidence that he was sincere in his position is that at no time were they able to obtain a clew that would put them on the trail they sought. On the other hand there were plenty of indications of McLaughlin's unselfishness, notably so when he refused to allow his name to be entertained for United States Senator. The boom that his friends were desirous of launching would, apparently, have met with general satisfaction throughout the State, for it was discussed at a time long before any of the present candidates were heard of.

Beyond a doubt, the principal reason that is prompting the Major to withdraw from the arena consists of the attacks made upon him because of his efforts in behalf of Colonel Burns. As soon as he publicly announced his position on the Senatorial question he was made a target for the stings and arrows of those interested in other aspirants, and he has evidently become disgusted with the whole business.

WHO WILL SUCCEED?
Who will be his successor, is a question that is now being asked. The names of P. B. Cornwall and M. M. Egan have been suggested, but though they are both worthy citizens, and good Republicans, they should not be entertained. The party needs a younger and more vigorous man to take charge of its affairs, for it is daily becoming more apparent that the next election is not going to be as much of a walk-over as was at one time anticipated. The Democrats are actively endeavoring to place upon the backs of the Republicans the burden of the trusts, and it will take skillful management and a vigorous campaign to be able to properly refute it.

Young blood, therefore, should be in demand, and the name of Senator Tom Flint of San Benito is suggested for the place. That he would make an admirable chairman of the Senate, as President of the Senate, he has never been elected, and best preceding officers that body ever had, his decisions being quick, firm and correct. Old politicians, who have seen the smoke of a hundred legislative battles, all concede the name of Senator Flint for his ability as an executive officer; so from that standpoint there would be nothing further to be desired.

The next element to be considered is his popularity. He is, without a doubt, one of the best liked young men in the State. His friends are legion, and there is yet to be found the individual who does not say a good word for him. He is a high flier in a number of fraternal organizations, and, irrespective of party affiliations, would gain the air of a big percentage of the people of the State.

From a party standpoint, too, though a member of the Senate for the past ten years, during which time all sorts and conditions of scandals have been adroitly regarding the members of that body, he has never been associated with any of the trusts, and as chairman of the State Central Committee no one would be able to say that the party organization had been placed under corruption influence. Looking at the situation over carefully, it must be conceded that he possesses as many of the requirements for the position as any one whose name could be advanced, and those of his friends who are urging his candidacy are the very best of the withdrawal of Major McLaughlin, are well satisfied with the way their overtures are being received.

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES.
While on the subject of candidates, it may surprise some people to know that the woods are already full of prospective Congressmen and Governors, despite the fact that those just elected have not yet had an opportunity to get their seats warm. It is not a case of being early birds to catch the worms, but, rather, of staying up all night so as to be sure to be on hand.

In the First Congressional district the lines have already been absolutely drawn, as previously explained in this correspondence, for Buchanan, who is a United States Senator, will retire, and State Senator Gillette will take his place. The Second district will be influenced by the political developments of the early part of next year. If the Legislature is Democratic, Ed. Vries will come before it as a candidate for United States Senator, but if it is Republican, he will run for Congress again, and bid to his place to be either Governor or Senator.

In the Third district Congressman McCall will be a candidate to succeed himself, and many think that Assessor Henry Dalton will contest the nomination with him. Major Snow is also spoken of as likely to challenge his castor in the ring.

In the Fourth district Julius Kahn will try his luck again. The Democrats want to measure swords with him next time, and they are being careful to keep him in the Democratic fold, and although the ex-Congressman does not look upon the proposition very kindly, just now, he is likely to change his mind before the time for making the running comes.

The Fifth district will witness one of the hottest fights next time in its history. Congressman Lund has no intention of relinquishing his seat, if he can help it, but there will be arrayed against him a combination that he will find hard to buck. Senator Eddie Wolfe will be one of the contestants, but as long as Kahn is in the race, it is more than probable Senator Bull will make a bid for the prize. At the present time he has hung out his colors as a candidate for United States Senator in the event of an extra session, but if he fails to connect in that regard he will, doubtless, make an essay for the lower branch of Congress and rely on making a record there that will land him in the Senate later on.

The Seventh district will be the scene of an effort on the part of Senator Smith of Bakerfield to take a trip to Washington. Nobody else has as yet given any indication of throwing a mailed glove into the arena, but there will certainly be plenty as time progresses.

THE LOS ANGELES JUDGESHIP.
Down Los Angeles way there is, of course, quite a political flutter going on just now about the appointment of a successor to Superior Judge Clark. Although the term will expire at the close of next year, the fight is just as keen as if it were for a full six years, because the individuals who are reaching the bench under such circumstances, in nine cases out of ten, is able to control enough influence to be able to get the nomination from his party.

It is believed that the Governor offered the place to his private secretary, W. I. Foley, more as a compliment than as a bribe, for it is not likely that he would care to lose the services of his former partner at Sacramento. Foley is an ideal private secretary, for although an attentive listener, he is one of the most uncommunicative individuals the executive office ever saw, a trait that is of immeasurable benefit in his present position. Having been associated with the Governor in practice at Los Angeles for many years, there is naturally a thorough understanding between the two men, and Foley's services are invaluable under the conditions.

With Foley out of the way the contest becomes a free for all, and in consequence, a multitude of applicants has appeared upon the scene. The Governor, however, shortened the crop considerably by letting it be known that under no conditions will he appoint a practical politician to the place.

Judge R. H. F. Varley is believed to be first in line for the appointment, but the impression prevails that he does not want it. He is personally friendly with the Governor, in addition, which fact is being backed by Senator Steve White. Ex-Congressman McLachlan is also on the list, with considerable influence behind him, while George Hutton, Chief Deputy District Attorney, has dropped in to be running during the past few days. Assemblymen Correy and Valentine are also candidates, and as between the two there is little doubt that the latter will be first choice. He was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the last House, a position he obtained as a compromise when he was a candidate for Speaker. He was the author of the Paris Exposition bill, and made himself prominent at Sacramento, both last session and the one preceding it.

THE SAN FRANCISCO FIGHT.
The local political field is in an unsettled condition. Both Republicans and Democrats are working vigorously on the primary preparations, and, although by this time there should be plenty of indications as to which faction will win, it is too hard a job to make any positive prophecies now. Since the decision of Superior Judge Sewell, sustaining the charter, those who expected to knock it out in an hour have been awakened to the situation, and with this new order of things in sight there is a hurrying and scurrying to get into line.

Despite the vigorous efforts of the new created Republican municipal organization, there seems little doubt that the Crimmins-Kelly combination will carry the primaries and control the convention. Colonel Burns is not taking a hand in the local fight, and to a man up a tree it looks as if there was an understanding between him and the local machine, whereby he will not interfere with San Francisco politics. On the other hand, the legislative delegation from this city will be lined up for him. All that Crimmins and Kelly have to do, therefore, is to fight the new organization by reforming and fix a hand on the local light, and to a man up a tree it looks as if there was an understanding between him and the local machine, whereby he will not interfere with San Francisco politics.

Had the blanket ticket scheme gone through there would have been absolutely no question of the machine having control of the situation, but even as things are now they have every indication of a handsome majority. It would, of course, have been better to have had a convention, at which the party could have chosen a better scale of living, and to larger opportunities for personal well being as the best of millions. There is a good deal of truth in this view of the subject, and I do not believe it is by these several classes, together constituting a large proportion of our social order, that kind organizing abilities in the industrial and the business worlds are of value to the general public.

THE TRUTH, HOWEVER, WHICH MR. CARMICHAEL ADVANCES IN THE WORDS I HAVE QUOTED, WHICH OUGHT TO BE RECOGNIZED, though it is not by these several classes, together constituting a large proportion of our social order, that kind organizing abilities in the industrial and the business worlds are of value to the general public.

HERD AND THERE.
Adjutant-General Seaman of the National Guard has established his headquarters at the Occidental Hotel while in town.

Senator Tom Flint has been passing a few days in a political way, but he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Supreme Justice at the last convention, is in the city.

Major Frank McLaughlin is around the Palace again.

Justice Horseshoe, Joe Austin, Harbor Commissioner Herold, Billy Hamilton and Henry Portman of Napa have been en route on a flying visit to White Sulphur Springs.

HATTON.
WHAT HURT HIM.
Young—"I heard that you were run down by a bicyclist this morning."

Oldboy—"I was."

Young—"Where you hurt?"

Oldboy—"Not until one of the bystanders said that it was a shame to see an old man knocked down like that."

Comments on Passing Events.

By HENRY A. CHITTENDEN.

I have this week received from Andrew Carnegie, from his Scottish retreat, Skibo Castle, in Argyry, a note in his own handwriting, politely acknowledging the recent utterances of the Oakland Tribune upon the news of his retirement in middle life from active business, the possessor of one hundred and fifty million dollars, all accumulated in his own lifetime.

Although the letter is, apparently, dated still, there being no indication, I feel a liberty to reproduce a few words which I deem a matter of legitimate public interest. Mr. Carnegie writes, in addition to his other words: "I am too old to make any more money with your wise conclusions as to the general subject of wealth. The organizing genius is rare and precious to the race as a whole. After all, the multi-millionaire is the cheapest acquisition to the community. Life gets his food, clothes, shelter only—no more. The surplus funds, even if not given for public ends directly, are still at work developing the resources of the land."

Now I know perfectly well, and am able to discount, what certain classes in this or any community will say in justification of this view of Mr. Carnegie's. The socialist thinker of America, in his top-sid yet creditable earnestness, the very poor out of the natural, and, therefore, partly justifiable member of society, will all agree that it is cheap and easy for the multi-millionaire to take this view of existing social and economic conditions.

But, however, which Mr. Carnegie advances in the words I have quoted, which ought to be recognized, though it is not by these several classes, together constituting a large proportion of our social order, that kind organizing abilities in the industrial and the business worlds are of value to the general public.

arranged and bought accordingly to be recognized and rewarded.

Also, I think, there is undeniable truth in my correspondent's claim that great fortunes in individual hands, the "aggregations of capital" which the agitators and, occasionally, the political conventions denounce, on the whole work for the common good and for the advance of civilization. If everybody spent all that his ability enabled him to make, whether little or much, for personal comfort and culture, it would soon come about that the means and appliances of comfort and culture would be very much restricted. Unless somebody harnessed wealth on a large scale to supply the popular demands, these demands would have to go unsatisfied, and, in time, from this species of general improvidence, the prices of not only luxuries but necessities of life would touch fabulous figures, and for larger numbers than new would suffer want.

Oakland, for instance, is at the present moment, in a position to peculiarly appreciate the beneficence of a few of these "aggregations" of wealth. Oakland has citizens in plenty of moderate private fortunes. They beautify and command our city with their elegant society houses, their private libraries and picture galleries, their conservatories, and, better yet, their semi-public shrubberies and their flower-clad homes. But they do not afford Oakland a worthy public library, a presentable and secure housing for such books as we have. They do not keep the wolf from the door of our splendid State University. They do not acquire at this most opportune time the unequalled Lake Park and the variegated and extensive interior tracts that are offered to us for a song, in comparison with the well-located and the ample tracts they can never be counted on to give Oakland and San Francisco almost instantaneous submarine pneumatic communication, to the equal accommodation of well-to-do citizens and the army of tollers. A multi-millionaire or two of the right sort are needed in Oakland to awaken public spirit, and to show what public blessings may come from rightly directed aggregations of capital.

What William C. Whitney and his associates have done for New York's surface railways, what the late Roswell P. Flower did in the way of reorganizing Brooklyn's rapid transit lines, what J. P. Widener have done in the way of organizing trolley service for Philadelphia and for large and populous areas in New Jersey, and what Charles F. Yerkes has done for transit in Chicago, still remains to be matched, although by different manifestations, by a large access of capital to the inviting field of Oakland.

The public will not scrutinize over closely the motives of the men whose capital shall give this most inviting part of the continent the facilities which it requires for the marvelous development in whose threshold it has come.

Meanwhile, no one can rationally quarrel with Mr. Andrew Carnegie for being truckly contented with the economic system under which he has done so well. It is not by any means an ideal system, to which the world is destined to attain. But it is the best which the world has yet seen, and it is a great improvement upon the thriffliness era of barbarism that it has supplanted, and to which, it is to be feared, some of the schemes and theories of the agitators, if realized, would revert.

All this is not to say that there is not ground for intelligent and active sympathy for the "submerged tenth." "Our boat is a very nice boat," says Mr. Carnegie and his fellow passengers, "it is dry and comfortable, and safe and commodious. We are satisfied with it." "But our here, in the waves, it is different," say the tired swimmers. "It is cold and uncomfortable, and rather wet, and a bit dangerous. We cannot always keep at this pace. Something must be fixed."

Speaking of cruelty, what has anyone to say to the awful starvation of my esteemed friend and colleague, Mr. Henry A. Newberry, about dogs?

That accomplished practitioner of literary vivisection, that disciple of Amiel, who out-Boyd Herod, who takes up his cannibalistic pen against his own species, does not hesitate to sweepingly label and malign man's best friend, the "harmless" necessary dog, because he occasionally, and corrupted in his temper by contact with unworthy specimens of humanity—Alameda butcher boys, for instance—fleeces his insurers in the scalp of the reluctant infant, we are obliged by Mr. Newberry, to recognize and dislike dogs.

As rationally as that gifted socialist tried to pick a quarrel with the beneficent law of gravitation, because a baby now and then seemed to fall out of a window, as well hug the horrid, coming anti-mobile because a mistreated horse once in a while runs away.

No. I am glad to see that, this very day, in a leading newspaper, whose heart is sometimes in the right place, my former, and ever young Wisconsin friend and poetess, Ella Wheeler, over her own signature, raises her pen in epic prose against those social monsters who make a habit of adopting and peeing dogs and cats, and then abusing them from their homes and the poundmaster when they move or go on a long journey.

No, Mr. Henry A. Newberry, keep your scalps for your author friends, but leave my dog friends, or, at least, leave them to the irrational discrimination of the Oakland Free Public Library, which by aggressive placards, excludes them from its doors, while its shelves are crowded with the thoughts and tributes of the greatest minds dedicated to dogs.

I cannot close this paper without expressing my earnest wish that the life of the city of Oakland to that pair of cannon of the fine old school, from the historic monitor Commodore, will soon be affirmatively settled, beyond time or doubt, and despite not tape. They must permanently adorn the base of the most inspiring and the tallest flagstaff in the State. If the specialness of any city should with no other the city council, to purchase and pay for them, I imagine this to be one of those opportunities for the manifestation of public spirit, rarely treated of in the beginning of this century.

"Gentlemen," said Daniel Webster, in one of his happiest and most memorable speeches, putting his hand suggestively in his pocket, "Gentlemen, this national debt must be paid, if I have to pay it myself."

A word to the Oakland patriot is sufficient, and eight hundred and fifty dollars is a bargain-counter price for forty-three and one-half pounds of concrete pillars. At least, that is what I—and the small boys astride of them—think about it.

Only the torments of the medical world are comparable to the agonies which many women suffer through.

The peculiar weaknesses and diseases of their delicate, feminine structure. Nothing less than unbearable torment would induce sensitive-minded women to resort to the intolerable methods of the average doctor in dealing with diseases of this nature.

There is a "better way" than these deplorable "examinations" and "local applications" is a truth which some women have yet to learn, although thousands are already rejoicing in the knowledge. They have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the one unfailing remedy which heals feminine weaknesses at their very source. This marvelous "Prescription" stops the flow of blood to the internal organs; stops weakening drains and ulcerated conditions; gives elastic strength to the supporting ligaments, vitality to the nerve centers, and complete womanly vigor to the entire constitution.

It is the perfect fortifier and regulator of women at every critical period in their development, from the time when they merge into womanhood until the "change of life." It is the one medicine which makes motherhood safe and almost free from pain.

A lady writes at 7 Park Avenue, Chicago, Ill.: "I myself, suffered a long time from female weakness, and was going into a decline. Took several bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and it saved me from a premature death. I now enjoy perfect health and will ever praise the wonderful efficacy of your medicine."

The best popular medical book in the world is Dr. W. V. Pierce's 1000 pages, illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser. It will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only. Address the Doctor at Buffalo, N.Y., or send a stamp for it to be bound cover.

NEWS OF THE
PLAYHOUSES.Macdonough Has a Great Week's Business--The Dewey's Next Bill.

There is now, and has been for the past week, a surprise, a theatrical surprise, in Oakland, and the nature of it is the really wonderful business at the Macdonough, where Hay's "A Midnight Bell" is being presented. Who would have entertained the thought for a single moment that a company could play a successful week's engagement at our best theater at popular prices? But such has been the case.

Mr. Stockwell and his company have established a precedent, and had it been any other organization than Stockwell's it could not have been accomplished.

For the first time in America, "A Midnight Bell" was produced at these low prices, and the experience has proved successful beyond the most sanguine expectations of all concerned.

The excellent financial results are attributable to a number of reasons. First, Mr. Stockwell's popularity as a comedian, not only on the Pacific Coast, but throughout the East, has ranked among the best comedians of the United States and numbers among his personal friends thousands who appreciate his wit and humor of the stage as well as of the stage.

Another reason is the careful way in which the play is presented. No detail is omitted in the production, which is one of undoubted merit. Two last performances will occur tonight and Sunday evening, which will terminate one of the most successful theatrical engagements in the history of Oakland.

DEWEY OPERA HOUSE.

Business remains on the sunny side of every street at the Twelfth street house of drama, and the theater has the honor of receiving a large and fashionable clientele of patrons these days. The plays which the management have presented of late and the manner of their presentation have been all that one could desire. It is a most wise policy on the part of the management to give a variety to its line of attractions. The fact of the past has been the fact that a stereotyped line of plays would be given week in and week out, and the public grew tired of attendance.

There is a wide deviation from this rule, and the melodrama walks hand in hand with the merry farce, and the legitimate and spectacular gives variety to the attractions. This coming week, beginning Monday evening, with the customer's choice of a play, a play will be put on which should receive liberal patronage from our theatergoers. Its title is "The Victoria Cross," a drama in five acts by J. W. Whitelock. The play is founded upon the discovery of a relic, a relic which was left by the death of a prominent man in England, who had been twice married and both wives, each with a son, were living and no separation from either had been obtained. At his demise the secret broke out, and the play is a very interesting event covering a chapter of life on the frontier in the service of the Queen's army.

The play will be mounted with art and realism and cost to the full strength of the Grand Opera House.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The production of "Carmen" this week at the Grand Opera House is far and away the best we have had of the opera in English in this city, and in several respects more complete than any we have ever had. For instance, the chorus of ragmuffins, which has hitherto been sung by girls, is given by little boys, as the composer intended it should be, and very successfully. The orchestra is certainly an ideal Carmen. She sings the music charmingly, and is compelled to respond to many encores. She acts with an abandon, ardor and self-consciousness that is both appropriate and achieving an unqualified success. Edith Mason is delightful in the sweet simplicity with which she invests Michael, and she gives unusual prominence to the musical charm of the role. Julie Cote's beautiful voice gives such great pleasure as Presqu'isle as to cause a general regret that the opportunity afforded her is not greater. As Mercedes, Bertha Rice is excellent. The Don Jose of Thomas H. Porter is a really splendid effort, and only possible to a truly great artist. The Escamillo of Winford Giff has raised him greatly in public favor. He proves a pleasant surprise and his rendition of the famous "Toreador" song never fails to bring down the house. As Donizetti, William Wolf shows what a great artist can do with a small opportunity, and by a nice attention to detail gives the part an importance that it never has previously had. Arthur Wootley, as Don Ramiro, and the others of the company are all excellent. As Don Ramiro, Arthur Wootley, as Don Ramiro, and the others of the company are all excellent. As Don Ramiro, Arthur Wootley, as Don Ramiro, and the others of the company are all excellent.

De Wolf Hopper intends to produce several of his earlier successes in London.

Word has been received here of the great success of John H. Brown in San Francisco, where he has been playing for a week.

Two-thirds of the leading actors of this country are spending their summer vacation in London.

London critics have highly praised the actor of Dorothy Gayer, who appears in "The White Left Hand."

Edith Braddon, formerly the wife of L. R. Stockwell, has been engaged for a production of "Devil's Island."

Harry Johnston has been visiting "Theatricals" in New York, where he played in stock seven years ago.

Madame Herrmann made her debut in vaudeville last week in Chicago.

Lillian Russell has been seen. It is reported by George M. Tabor, for R. H. Russell, that she has been sustained by the closing of "Le Belle Helene."

Rosa Melville will make her metropolitan debut in the new three-act arrangement of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" at the Bijou Theater next season.

Matthews and Bulger will present their new play in New York in January, at a Broadway theater.

Sarah Bernhardt played "Fanny" last week in the Shakespeare Memorial Theater, at Stratford-on-Avon. The Mayor presented a bouquet to the actress, and she visited the local spots of historical interest.

For the appreciative T. Daniel has so-

Robert Hilliard has gone to England for his summer vacation.

Mrs. W. J. Florence and her daughter, Josephine Florence Shepard, are summering at Ashbury Park, N. J.

Julia Neilson will play Constance in Beerbohn Tree's London production of "King John."

"Arizona," Augustus Thomas' new play, has secured a decided success in Chicago. Manager Kline La Shelle expects that its run there will continue through the summer.

Bobby Gay will star next season in "A Tumbler's Man," written for him by Daniel Sully.

John J. Pierson has been engaged to play Captain Haynes in "When London Stars," and to originate the title role in a new production later in the season under management of J. H. Volk.

George Frothingham of the Eastons has gone to Bridgeport, Me., where he will be joined by Messrs. McDonald and Sudlow, that company for the summer.

George Frothingham has just completed twenty-five years of consecutive service in the Bostonian, and comes very near the record of some of the chorus girls.

AN OVERLOOKED POSSESSION.

In the interest of the larger results of the war, the Isle of Pines, which passed into the possession of this government by the clause in the peace treaty providing for the session of all islands under Spanish sovereignty in the West Indies except Cuba, has been largely overlooked. It promises, nevertheless, to prove a very valuable acquisition.

Both in its location upon our relations with Cuba, the southern coast of which is nearer the United States, the island lies about thirty miles due south of Cuba on the line of Havana, has an area of about 100 square miles, and is situated between the Gulf of Mexico and the Gulf of Cuba.
